Sheriff Rowland left for San Bernardino yesterday on his regular route, a cattle thief arrested last week. It seems that this man and others of his kind have been foraging between this place and San Bernardino, and taking cattle stolen from one neighborhood to another, where they slaughtered and sold them. It is hoped that the band of marauders will now be broken up.

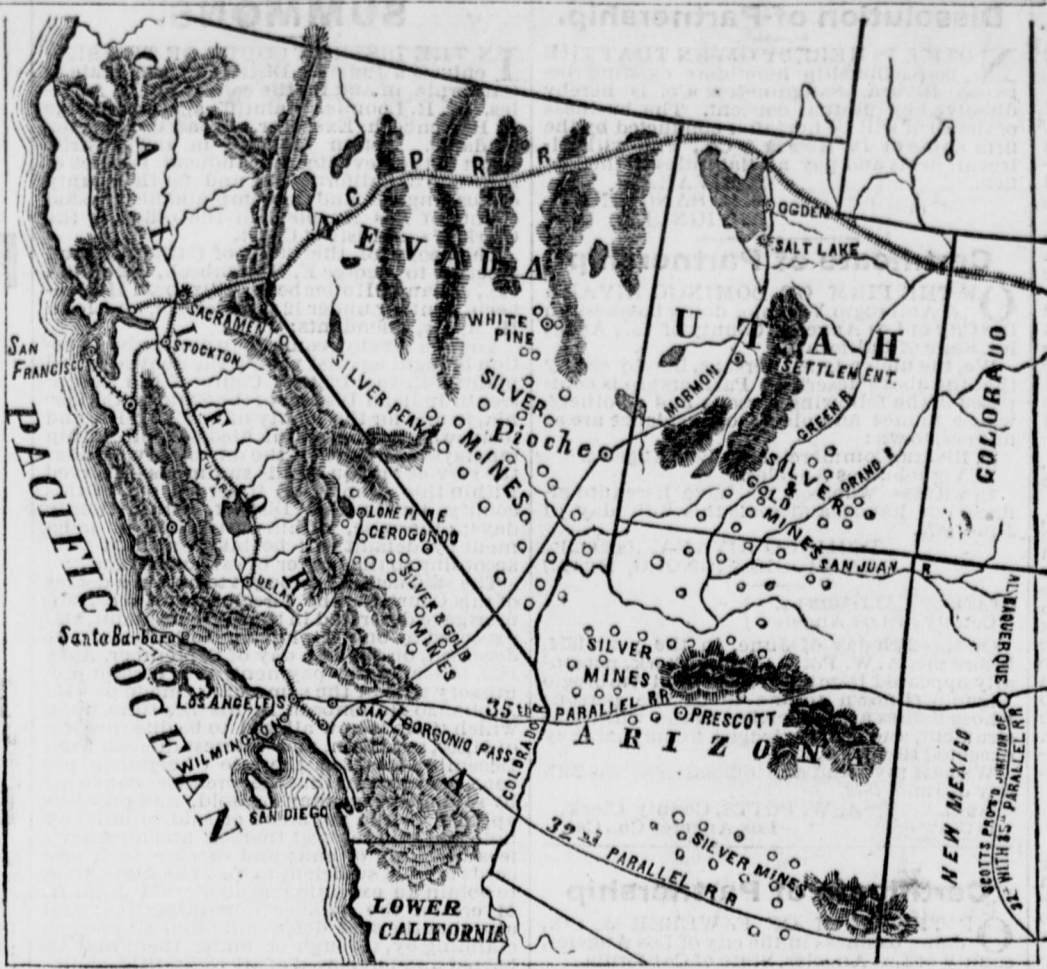

The late examination of Mr. H. H. Harmon, in compliance with the law, to test his fitness for the position of short-hand reporter for the District Court, elicited the fact that he could report one hundred and eighty words per minute. This is somewhat remarkable rapidity, and cannot be beaten by any reporter on the coast. The accounts of the examinations of court reporters in this city show the maximum average of speed attained to be from one hundred and thirty-five to forty words per minute.

Leck's Hall has been remodeled during the present week, and will hereafter be known as Grange Hall. The Grange Co-operative Company has leased the entire building for a term of years, and has re-leased the hall to Los Angeles Grange for their use. It will also be used as heretofore by the Methodist Church South, as a place of worship, and will be let for lectures, etc., as in times past. J. H. Seymour, General Manager of the Grange Store, has the leasing of the Hall. Los Angeles Grange meets at the new Hall to-day at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Edward Warren, late of New York, died in this city on the 8th inst., aged sixty-five years. At the request of his wife and friends a post mortem examination was held by Dr. Hobbs, assisted by P. M. Shaw, the result of which was to determine that all the suppositions of cancer in the stomach, and instead of cancer in the stomach, that organ was found to be perfectly healthy; also the heart, lungs and spleen. But the liver was found to be indurated and filled with tumors—being enlarged to the size of ten pounds in weight, when it should have been but four. The cavity of the abdomen was filled with dropsical effusions, which were the immediate cause of death by strangulation.

A difficulty occurred on the train coming from Spadra yesterday between Conductor House and a man named Charles Collan. It seems that Collan had purchased a through ticket from San Bernardino to this city, from a stage company in the former place. This company did not make proper connections with the railroad, and when at last Collan was on the train, he found himself without either a ticket or his name upon the way-bill. The conductor demanded a ticket from the man, on his fare, and when refused attempted to put him off the train. At this stage of the proceedings, Collan drew a large dirk knife and held it at his side in a rather forbidding manner. Upon arriving in the city, Conductor House had the man taken under arrest, and made complaint against him before Justice Trafford, for committing an assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill. Considering all the circumstances, and especially as Collan did not make any offensive demonstrations after he had drawn his knife, he was acquitted of all the charges except displaying a deadly weapon and dismissed on the payment of ten dollars fine.

MAP OF OUR BACK COUNTRY.

FIRE.

The Aliso Mills Burned—A Heavy Loss to the Owners and to the Interests of the County.

About half-past 10 o'clock last night the alarm of fire was sounded, and our citizens turned out, to find the Aliso Mills in flames. A Herald reporter was promptly upon the scene after the sounding of the first alarm, and already the building was filled with flames from the ground floor to the roof. Soon after, the engine made its appearance and commenced playing with two full streams upon the burning building.

THE MILL.

Was a three-story brick, with the usual amount of frame inside work of bins, elevators and machinery, which all acted like so much tinder to feed the destroying element. Although the Fire Company was on hand as soon as they could be expected, and though they commenced operations on the moment and worked manfully throughout, it was evident from the first that the mill was doomed to destruction.

THE ORIGIN OF THE FIRE.

We were unable to learn; but as near as we could surmise from the circumstances, it appears to have been caused by the heating of machinery in the rear of the building, on the first or basement floor. A gentleman who passed the place at 10 o'clock saw no signs of the approaching conflagration, but there were lights in the building, and the machinery had been running shortly before. Last evening was the first time that the mill had been in operation during the night for a considerable period.

THE STOCK.

In the store was quite heavy, composed mostly of corn, with some barley and a quantity of flour. But little was saved from the burning building. A few sacks of feed and some flour, hardly worth mentioning, was taken out and deposited on the street. The books and papers were doubtless saved.

THE BUILDING.

Was the property of Messrs. Eugene Meyer, Governor Downey and O. W. Childs. It was built about four years ago and cost, with machinery, about $30,000. The mill was run by water power. Messrs. Deming, Palmer & Co. of San Francisco, were the lessees, and the institution was operated under the personal supervision of Mr. Deming, the senior partner.

THE INSURANCE.

The interests of Governor Downey and O. W. Childs were insured with W. J. Brodick in the State Investment and Insurance Company for $4,000, which amount, we understand, will be promptly adjusted and paid. The other third interest was insured in the Hamburg and Bremen. The whole insurance amounted, perhaps, to $10,000, but probably less than that figure. The grain and flour owned by the lessee was not insured, and will be a total loss to that firm.

THE LOSS.

Will be heavy on all concerned; but it is more to be deplored perhaps as it regards the interests of the country. Our milling facilities are already limited far below the demands of this section and we can ill afford to spare so efficient an establishment as the Aliso Mills, especially at this time, just before the opening of the wheat season. However, the loss falls upon those who are abundantly able to replace it, and we trust that the mills will be in operation again as soon as workman can reconstruct it.

LATER.

As we go to press (1 o'clock A. M.) the flames have entirely spent their force, though the engine is still playing upon the ruins. The building is very effectually gutted, but the walls are standing apparently uninjured. If they are not cracked by the heat (which is seriously to be apprehended) a very considerable portion of the loss may be recovered by making use of the walls in rebuilding.

San Francisco Circus.

By an advertisement in another column, it will be seen that the Great San Francisco Circus will be here and commence their exhibition on the 17th of this month. In speaking of this combination the Santa Cruz Sentinel, of a late date, says: "The San Francisco Circus Company gave a very satisfactory exhibition in Santa Cruz on Monday evening last, and were greeted in return with a crowd of ten thousand. The performance was good throughout, and though the performers were weary after a hard day's travel from Pescadero, they acquitted themselves as to delight all the spectators."

Merrill Lodge of Good Templars, of this city, will pay a friendly visit to Minnehaha Lodge, of Gallatin, next Tuesday night. A special train has been chartered to convey the party.

SANTA BARBARA.

A Trip Down—A Lady Lecturer in Bad Company—The Celebration Among the Santa Barbarians—Mr. Albert Packard's Place.

"Colorado," the correspondent of La Cronica, sends the following spicy letter, which we translate:

SANTA BARBARA, July 7th.

It is not everybody who can appreciate a ride over some of the finest country in California. Leaving your busy town on the 3d at 5 A. M. in company with three other Local Optionists, provided with the necessary stimulants that constitute an antidote to the usual amount of dust on the road, we jogged along, passed the Simi ranch, and as we were entering on the fertile lands of Los Posos our jolly party was increased by the advent of two fair damsels who helped to dissipate the monotony of the road. In due time we arrived in Ventura, a flourishing town whose chief attractions are fog and wind. Having satisfied our craving appetites, we resumed our journey with the addition of a lady lecturer on the driver's seat. We offered her some of our "particular wares," but she refused; saying we were a degenerated party, and how long her lecture would have lasted it is impossible to say, as the driver had the good sense to pick out a good-sized hole, and the jolting shocked her nerves so that she could not proceed; at any rate, our drive on the beach was no longer spoiled by temperance lectures, and we arrived in Santa Barbara without any greater mishap than a controversy as to the constitutionality of the Local Option law. But as we had a doctor with us, he soon wrote out some prescriptions and we gleefully made for a drug store, where we were provided with dust medicine.

July 4th.—This being Independence Day, I arose early to the fun and enjoy myself. It did not take me long to judge of the merits of the officers who conducted the procession. At last they started—two cars, with some of the juvenile fair sex of this city, representing the local Colonists and States, some citizens and the rear brought up with mounted hoodlums whose name was legion, the whole covered by an immense canopy of dust. They halted at the entrance of Lobos's Theatre. The Declaration was read, some music was indulged in, and then came the Orator of the Day, Eugene Fawcett, and delivered what some called an oration, but which, in reality, was a general declamation of all public officers at disheveled spectators and himself the only honest man fit to be elected to Congress.

Of the toasts responded to, E. E. Huse, Esq., made a rather extraordinary exhibit of his Santa Barbara and its Resources." Wm. Franklin answered to "Our Country and its Statesmen" in the identical oration I have often heard in my school days; he must have been afraid he would forget it, to judge from the declaration of his violent haste in which he delivered it. At last we were recompensed by the eloquent answer of Judge G. S. Hupp to the "Bench and Bar." He possesses the rare oratorical power which the rest lacked, and it was a pity we did not have more of the same. Particularly noticed the working of the Local Option law, and I have arrived at the conclusion that the people pay very little attention to it—only they are careful to whom they sell liquor.

Once more I am tired and sleepy, and will close without saying anything about the races, the bear and bull fight, and the excursion to the Montecito, Carpinteria and La Patera, as I was not present at either.

JULY 5th.—I arose at 5 A. M. this morning, and with some friends took a salt-water bath on the beach, and after taking a hearty breakfast strolled out to Mr. Albert Packard's vineyard. He has one of the most beautiful places in Southern California. His orange, olive, almond and mulberry groves are deserving of a little more attention than has been paid them. They occupy quite an extensive tract of land, and so much care has been taken in their cultivation that they look better than anything I have seen in the State. His wine cellar is well stocked, and there are one hundred barrels of home-made brandy stamped and ready for market. The vineyard promises to yield a larger crop of grapes this year than any before.

Wood is King!

EDITOR HERALD: Within the last month the article of firewood, which every family must have, has appreciated enormously in price. On inquiring into the cause, we are told that our paternal government has just now discovered the cause of the shrinkage in its revenues, and consequent failure to shrink our national debt. It is owing entirely to the vandalism of a few poor woodchoppers in Los Angeles county who persist in raiding upon mountain cañons and hillsides, and destroying the scrub-oak, sycamore and manzanilla roots that eke out a precarious existence thereon—the said cañons and hillsides being counted among the royal possessions of the aforesaid paternal government.

With the view of stopping this stupendous leak in the public treasury, our wise Uncle has commissioned a swarm of terribly honest officers (whose united salaries only amount to about ten times the worth of the timber destroyed) to put a stop to this nefarious business—and we poor subjects of Los Angeles are called upon to pay twenty dollars for about three-quarters of a cord of wood, or eat our beef-steak and drink our coffee cold.

In all this our respected Uncle reminds us very much of the owl perched in a dark barn—he can see through the cracks, but put him in open daylight and he is totally blind. In Washington, where our Uncle resides, in the broad daylight of every species of rascality and villainy, he can see nothing; but through the cracks he can see away over into the deep cañons of Los Angeles county and detect these rascally woodchoppers raiding upon his scrub-oaks, sycamores and manzanilla roots! And by this thin regard for public interests, compel us to pay twenty dollars per cord of wood—more than the whole of which goes to pay his minions for harassing the people.

We have no objection, and really it is the duty of our Government to protect from vandalism our forests of valuable timber; but when its vigilance extends to scrub oaks, sycamores and manzanilla roots in the deep recesses of cañons round and about a populous city, we are inclined to think it is "looking through the cracks of the barn."

HAMPDEN.

Fun on Main Street.

On the suburban grounds of Mr. Elijah Workman there has ripened several fine bunches of bananas of delicious flavor this year. Yesterday evening the boys improvised an enormous section of one of the great stalks, rigged it up like a mounted telescope, and it was quite amusing to see the surprise of the passers-by as they read the following bulletin: "The Banana Telescope. Price of Views, 25 cents each." Mr. Furrow Turn came up in the gentle giant's hand, and drawing out his purse, presented his 25 cents.

"I want to look at the comet."

"Oh, yes, Sir; step up on the ladder and view."

"Ha! How is this? I can't see!"

"The deuce! Stand aside and take his view. Thanks (pays a quarter). Now, Sir, look steadily over Downey's Nose, there! Now you have it. Is it not elegant?"

Mrs. Cress happened along next, and her attention was abruptly called to the great telescope. Throwing her bonnet back, she presented a shining quarter and implored permission to use the new wonder. She fixed her glasses—looked! "Ah! Ah! How grand and glorious! It is a comet!" The younger lights saw the joke at once. But Laurence's Block people nearly burst their sides with laughter.

A Joke on Somebody.

When Engineer W. H. Thomas ran his 2 o'clock Wilmington train up to the depot in this city yesterday P. M., he felt confident all was right, and as he was innocently and harmlessly casting about to deliver the passengers and baggage safely upon the platform, he was accosted with "Hallo, Thomas, where's your baggage and passenger cars?" Behold, to his great consternation, he was here, safe and sound, with his good faithful locomotive, tender and some freight-cars, but where, oh where, were the rest of his train? We were sure that at the last station (Florence) all was O. K., but "here I am," says he, "minus one freight car, the baggage car and the passenger car, with all the passengers, one brakeman and my very valuable Conductor, Frank Monahan—all gone." But where? Was the question.

Well, Thomas thought the best thing he could do was to go back down the road and ascertain where the terrible responsibility rested. About four and a half miles down the track he found his lost train, where Conductor Monahan and his jolly crowd were sitting in the shade of the cars enjoying the joke, which they had unanimously agreed Thomas should have the benefit of. But Thomas could not see it in that light. The truth was, by some means the three rear cars had become uncoupled, and they were left involuntarily on the standstill, and the engineer was so intent on driving his black horse that he knew nothing of the mishap till his arrival at the depot. All's well that ends well.

The Seaside.

EDITOR HERALD:—A lady correspondent of the HERALD, in her description of the beauties and pleasures of Santa Monica, among others enumerates finding "flies in the honey, beetles in the sugar, fleas in the butter, dead rats in the spring, rattlesnakes under the pillow, skunks running over your feet," and other disgusting or to feminine happiness numerous to mention. Now I would recommend to all persons who wish to spend a few hours or a few days comfortably and free from all the annoyances mentioned above, to visit the seaside retreat of Mr. Will. Tell, where they will find the host and hostess unremitting in their attention to their guests, a table unprepared in variety and quality of food, neat and cleanly apartment, a beautiful lake, with boats, sea bathing, fishing, and all within twelve miles of Los Angeles—and at the most reasonable prices.

VISITOR.

An Indian woman named Mariana was found dead in Sonora last evening. It is supposed that her death was caused by a beating from the hands of a Mexican nicknamed "Fandango," with whom she was living.

PIPIFAX.

This remarkable curative herbal preparation is entirely unlike and greatly superior to any other recuperant ever discovered.

It strengthens the living vital nerveuric principle, and gives energy to the muscles, nerves, filaments, membranes, and all tissues of the internal organs.

PIPIFAX—Keeps the skin in a supple condition; the cuticle pliant; the pores open; and brings the blood to the surface; thereby enabling the system to counteract these baneful atmospheric influences.

PIPIFAX—Passes through the blood, carries off by perspiration and other excretions the effete and injurious materials of the body. It is soothing, alterative and debrutative. Used methodically and rationally, aided by suitable diet, it produces most important changes in the system, contributing to the reconstruction of tissues, and removes vitiated matter which has become not only useless but injurious. No other article has ever been introduced which combines in such an extraordinary degree the principles of an efficient antibilious agent and tonic. Try it and be convinced. May 29 3m—20
